It's a good ticket and a winner.

And the Register-Tribune editor got his men—NIT.

The nominees, as well as the platform, are all right.

The Record is satisfied with the result from top to bottom.

The nominations for members of the school board are first class.

The new city central committee stands for harmony and clean politics.

Old things are passing away with the dawning of the new era in Roswell.

Here is to a united Democracy for the city of Roswell and Chaves county.

The privates came through without a scratch. Only a few dead leaders—nothing more.

Mr. Bell should have known that Dr. Yater is something of a medicine-maker himself.

The vote on committeeman should be enough to prove that there has been a decided change even in the Fourth ward.

After all, Bell is not so much to blame. His attempt was only the aftermath of the unwise leadership of two years ago.

It is against the policy of the Record to jump on a man when he is down—but you must excuse a little jubilation for one day.

It was a great victory for Democratic principles and good government. The voters, not the ward politicians, are now in control.

The main part of the battle centered in the Fourth ward, of course, and behold, there is where the Philistines were worst defeated.

The daylight voting primary did the work. Even if the vote was light, many more people voted than would have attended the old style of dark-lantern caucus.

It was uncomfortably close, and emphasizes the danger of having the Democratic party split down the middle of the back by the quarrels of ambitious "leaders." Now let the voters get together and run the party on Democratic principles.

The high license and prohibition questions are settled as far as city affairs go for the next two years, and the people need not worry about the present ordinances being repealed without the fullest publicity and submission to the popular vote.

The Record respects positive men, even when it cannot agree with them. One redeeming feature of R. D. Bell is that he stands out in the open for what he favors. The sneak who tries to "play both sides and the middle" is the worst public menace.

Justice Welter says there is much complaint about men spitting on the sidewalks, both consumptives and tobacco users, but nobody seems willing to make formal complaint. The city ordinance and Territorial laws are strict enough to abate this nuisance if proper complaint is made in police or justice court.

We understand that Mr. Whiteman agreed not to run for councilman in the Fifth ward if some other good man could be found willing to take the place. Under the circumstances, the editor of this paper would have voted for Whiteman had he lived in that ward—likewise Captain Haynes regardless of circumstances.
